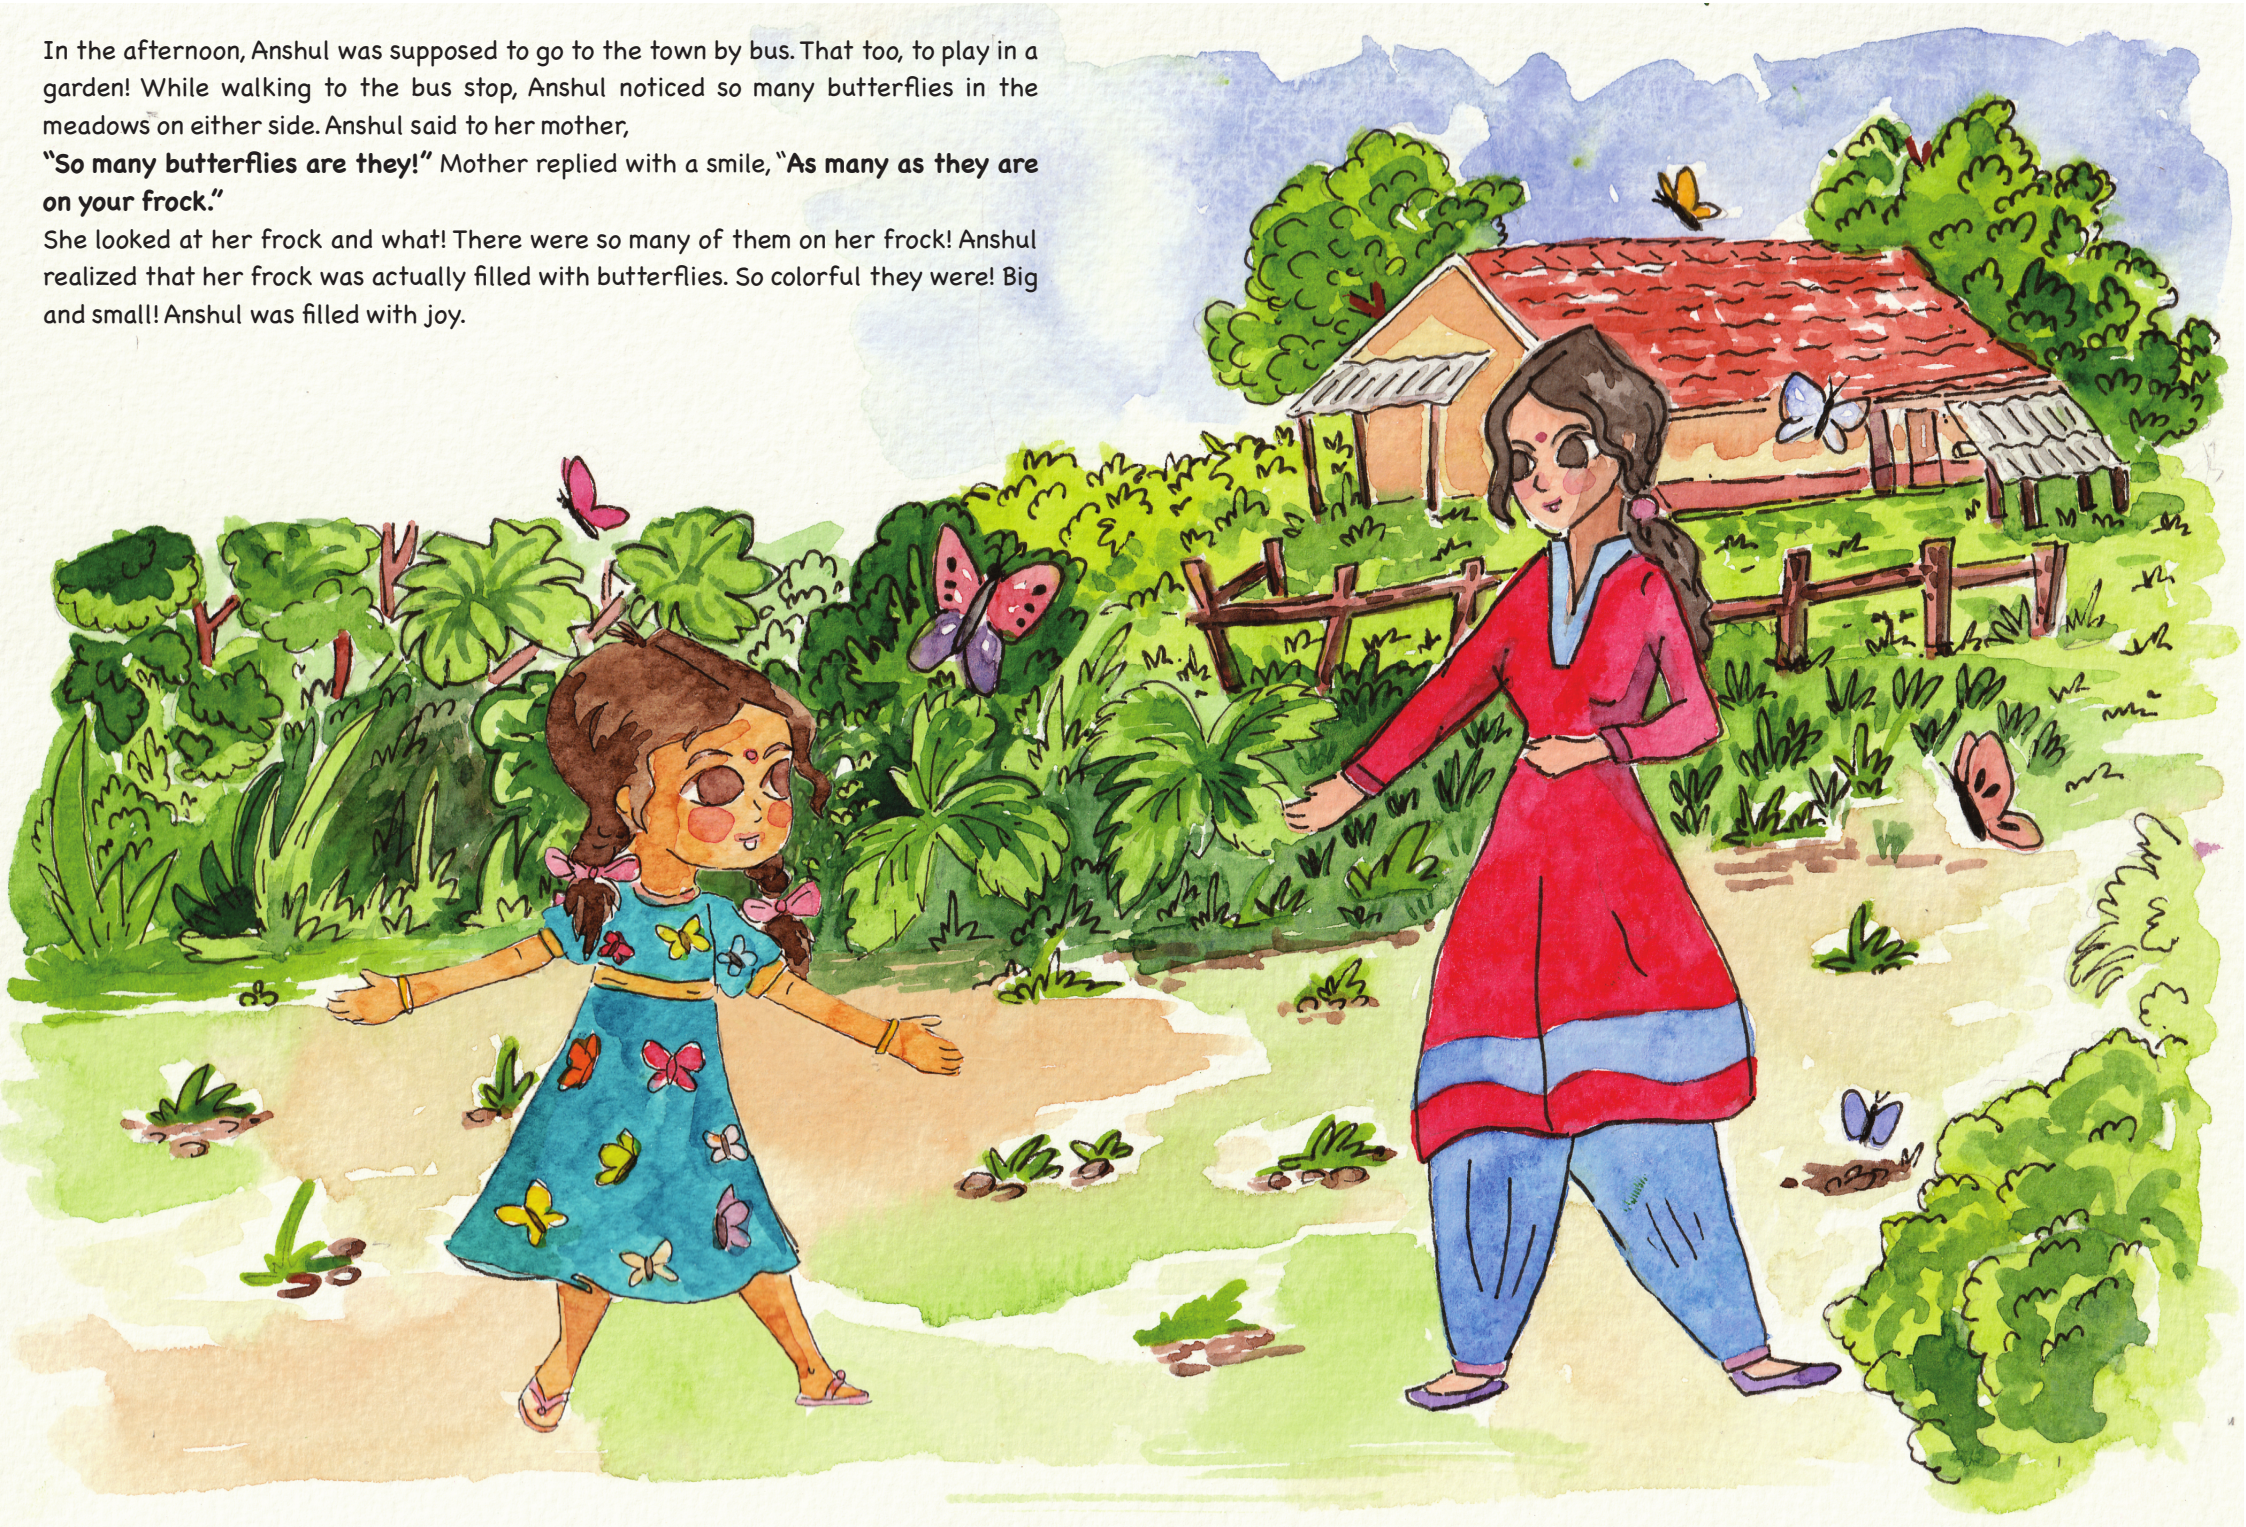
In the afternoon, Anshul was supposed to go to the town by bus. That too, to play in a garden! While walking to the bus stop, Anshul noticed so many butterflies in the meadows on either side. Anshul said to her mother,

"So many butterflies are they!" Mother replied with a smile, "As many as they are on your frock."

She looked at her frock and what! There were so many of them on her frock! Anshul realized that her frock was actually filled with butterflies. So colorful they were! Big and small! Anshul was filled with joy.



Anshul enjoyed a lot while playing with the butterflies. She could play the swing as much as she wished for as there was no one in the garden besides her. She could climb the slide upwards. All the butterflies were also playing happily with her.
